Mr. Bryan's Prosperity.

The fact that Hon. W. J. Bryan has just completed a home at Lincoln, Neb., is being received with a great deal of pain by a number of papers throughout the north and east. These papers lay particular stress upon the fact that this house has twenty rooms, and that Mr. Bryan is not only a free silver man, but an energetic opponent of the trusts. They hold to the axiom that any man who sympathizes with the poorer classes should remain poor himself and leave to others the accumulation of riches. It is said that Mr. Bryan has already accumulated between $150,000 and $500,000 worth of property, and asserted that his annual income from his paper and other sources is not less than $50,000 annually.

This condition of affairs is sad, no doubt, but what is the use of protesting? An especially generous Providence endowed Mr. Bryan with more than his share of gray matter, and it is not apparent how these people are to keep him poor. It is true that Mr. Bryan is becoming wealthy without oppressing any one, and that there has never been the least suspicion that one penny of filthy money ever soiled his hands. And it is this that hurts. The plutocratic organs which are pained at his prosperity would have no ill-feeling against him if his money were wrung from the sweat and the suffering of the mass of people. If Mr. Bryan had, for example, secured his wealth by cornering the stock of coal in some city during the existing blizzard or had devised some plan whereby small dealers in certain commodities could have been ruined that a syndicate might capture the trade which had been theirs, he would have been hailed as a captain of industry. But that he should coin this wealth out of the gray matter within his skull, and without injury to any of his neighbors, is, of course, inexcusable. It is more inexcusable that he does not change his political views now that he has acquired a considerable amount of worldly goods. But more damning than all else is that he is making regularly the salary of a manager of a great syndicate without oppressing any one whatsoever.

The public will be pained along with the plutocrats at this extraordinary conduct of Mr. Bryan, but their pain will by no means be as acute. In fact they may be willing that Mr. Bryan should continue to prosper, though the more envious will not un-naturally complain that Providence was not more even-handed in its distribution of brains. Mr. Bryan has achieved a notable victory in demonstrating that even at this late day brains are a valuable commodity in the world, and that a man may prosper even yet without oppressing his neighbors and without permitting his conscience to be seared by the acquisition of wealth by furtive methods.

It may be as well to inform these plutocratic organs that wealth is not in itself an evil, but that evil methods of acquiring the wealth is what constitutes the sin, and that they will never be able to convince the world that honestly acquired wealth is a disgrace, while wealth dishonestly and illegally acquired is an honor to the holder. May Mr. Bryan continue to coin wealth out of his brains until he has all that is necessary to his happiness. The pity of it is that most of the great fortunes in this country are not in the keeping of such men as he.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Book Reviews.

One of the most popular books recently issued is the volume containing a collection of the writings, addresses and orations of Senator John James Ingalls, collected by his widow, and published by Hudson-Kimberly Co., Kansas City. Senator Ingalls was a picturesque character and one of the first men of the trans-Missouri country to win a prominent place in national politics. He was orator, rhetorician, poet, satirist and statesman combined. Few have had so complete command of the English language or could boast so comprehensive a vocabulary. His invectives were as terrific as his eulogies were beautiful, and the senate was always crowded when he was announced to speak. The number of orders already received for the book indicate that it will have an exceedingly large sale. The volume contains 536 pages, and the price runs from $2.50 in cloth to $4.50 in full Morocco.

A reader of The Commoner asks for information in regard to a Life of Lincoln. There are several books to which reference might be made, among others, a volume entitled "Reminiscences of Lincoln," published by the North American Review, of New York. This is complete in one large volume, and is made up of articles by a large number of persons giving incidents in the life of Lincoln. Herndon's "Life of Lincoln," published by Appleton & Company, of New York, is complete in two volumes. Raymond's "Life of Lincoln," also published in two volumes, was issued just after President Lincoln's death and was republished by Hearst & Co., of New York, in 1891.

Mr. Harris Weinstock has published through Funk & Wagnalls Co., New York, a volume entitled "Jesus the Jew." He recounts how in his youth he was taught to connect the sufferings and persecutions of the Jews with the name of Jesus and to charge them upon his followers, but that upon study he found that Christ "simply knew Judaism, the religion of his birth, which he practiced and preached and which he tried to keep pure and undefiled." He follows up the discussion of the personality of Christ with the following chapters:

Jesus the Jew.
What Jew and Christian Owe to Each Other.

Is the Messiah Yet to Come?
Are the Jews God's Chosen People?
Why Remain Jews?
Shall Jew and Christian Intermarry?

Moses, the Greatest Man of Antiquity.

The Ethics of Moses and Its Influence on Present Civilization.

The Jewish Idea of God.

The Jew in Commerce.

The book is an exceedingly interesting one both to Hebrew and Gentile.

Funk & Wagnalls Co., New York city, have issued a little book entitled "The Next Step in Evolution," by Dr. I. K. Funk. The main thought running through the book is to be found in the statement "Christ came the first time into men's visions by coming on the plane of their senses; He comes the second time into men's visions by lifting them up to his plane of spiritual comprehension." The book is one of a number of recent publications intended to draw attention to the practical influence of Christ's teachings upon the thought and life of today.

Looking for a Husband.

"When a woman wants a husband she doesn't go looking in a club for one," said the short-haired maiden lecturer.

"Not unless she happens to be married," suggested one of the long-haired sisters in the audience.—Yonkers Statesman.

VERY FEW PEOPLE

Are Free From Some Form of Indigestion.

Very few people are free from some form of indigestion, but scarcely two will have the same symptoms.

Some suffer most directly after eating, bloating from gas in stomach and bowels, others have heartburn or sour risings, still others palpitation of the heart, headaches, sleeplessness, pains in chest and under shoulder blades, some have extreme nervousness, as in nervous dyspepsia.

But whatever the symptoms may be, the cause in all cases of indigestion is the same, that is, the stomach, for some reason fails to properly and promptly digest what is eaten.

This is the whole story of stomach troubles in a nutshell. The stomach must have rest and assistance and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give it both by supplying those natural digestives which every weak stomach lacks, owing to the failure of the peptic glands in the stomach to secrete sufficient acid and pepsin to thoroughly digest and assimilate the food eaten.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment, which anyone can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut a hard boiled egg into very small pieces, as it would be if macerated; place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body) and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle it will do to the egg or meat in the stomach and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectually. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essences, a-epic, pepsin, diastase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Dieting never cures dyspepsia, neither do pills and cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines.

When enough food is eaten and promptly digested there will be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are sold at the moderate price of 50 cents for full sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.
